Natoli Engineering Enters Encapsulation Machine Replacement Parts Market with Carlisle Precision Machining Acquisition

ST. CHARLES, MO (March 27, 2018) - Natoli Engineering Company, Inc., the global leader in tablet compression tooling, has announced it has acquired Carlisle Precision Machining (CPM) of Nampa, Idaho, a leader in aftermarket change and spare parts for many brands of Bosch-type encapsulation machines used in the pharmaceutical and nutraceutical industries.

As a subsidiary of Natoli Engineering Company, the organization has been renamed Carlisle Precision Encapsulation Parts. Manufactured from the highest quality materials, Carlisle products meet and often exceed the functionality and longevity of OEM encapsulation machine parts.

Encapsulation spare parts include:

- Dosing disks
- Segments
- Alignment pins
- Sorting blocks
- Magazine assemblies

"We are very excited to have Carlisle as part of the Natoli family of companies," said Dale Natoli, President of Natoli Engineering Company. "We look forward to bringing the same industry leadership and high level of customer service to the encapsulation machine replacement parts market as we have supplied to the tablet tooling industry for many years."

In addition to an expanded refurbishment service for many brands of encapsulation machines, Carlisle makes custom encapsulation machine parts that can be engineered to a customer's exact specifications. Carlisle Precision Encapsulation Parts also offers training and consulting services.
